'' In order to ensure continued faith in the scientific process
such serious
breaches of ethics
cannot be tolerated...''

- Richard Wiles, Senior Vice President, Environmental Working Group, regarding a 2005 study found to be fraudulently altered by the scientific consulting firm Chemrisk, the same firm that also produced a suspicious 2011 report denying that BP Drilling Disaster offshore oil clean up workers were exposed to toxic chemicals.
